Profile

Since 1993 Chris Dorley-Brown has been collaborating with artists, filmmakers, curators, publishers, performers and writers as well groups and individuals in the public sphere in a variety of cultural contexts, primarily outside the art gallery - radio, print, cinema, television, internet and architecture. Alongside these activities Chris is creating an ongoing photographic archive of the London Borough of Hackney (1984-present). In 2015 two widely acclaimed photo books were published: The Longest Way Round and Drivers in the 1980s. Chris lives and works in London.
